

Implementing Successful PMOs

How often do your projects and programmes finish on time and to cost? Do you know where all your investment is being spent? How do you decide where to allocate your resources? Implementing a PMO successfully will mean you can answer all these questions. PMOs are responsible for establishing, maintaining and enforcing project, programme and portfolio management processes, procedures, and standards.

Intelligent Consulting (IC) is the Consultancy and Management Services division of the £120m RSG Group PLC. In addition to technology and business change capability we understand the complexities of governance around project activity. Our approach is collaborative, honest and not condescending, concentrating instead on business improvement rather than finger pointing.

There is no “one size fits all” PMO, no out of the box solution. Each one must fit in with your organisation and this takes skill, understanding and many years of experience. Some organisations need an administrative PMO, while others need a heavyweight PMO capable of adding tremendous value. Successful PMOs can reduce project timescales and costs, increase resource utilisation and effectiveness, enforce project priorities, manage stakeholders carefully and share best practices across projects.

Selection of the right PMO team is critical to achieving this and Intelligent Consulting offers industry-leading specialists, who are masters at delivering and implementing successful PMOs. Our trusted network of PMO resources includes a blend of programme, project and change managers, with significant experience in large consulting firms and blue chip companies. Together, they have the broad range of understanding and skills to cover all levels of PMO (Portfolio, Programme and Project Management Offices) and all the PMO functions.

Neil Goudge is our leading associate in the area of PMO. Neil is a high influencing, pragmatic, Programme Office Manager with over 10 years experience in consulting firms and 15 years senior management experience within Blue Chip companies. Neil holds more than 10 years experience managing international change programmes in diverse sectors.
